

THE JOURNAL TSR

The journal "Transnational Social Review - A Social Work Journal" (TSR) offers an international forum to discuss social work and related disciplines from a transnational perspective.

TSR was founded in 2010 by an international team of editors and board members. From 2014 TSR is published by Routledge, Taylor & Francis Group. It is published three times a year.

All research articles to this journal have undergone rigorous peer review, based on initial editor screening and anonymized refereeing by at least two anonymous and independent reviewers.

TSR aims at a wide audience, including academics, practitioners and politicians and is available online as well as in print. Each issue consists of a cluster of articles on a focus topic, as well as general articles and book reviews. Additionally, it includes the non-peer-reviewed section "Mapping Transnationalism", which consists of brief, up-to-date reports on research, teaching, social policies, and practices concerning the transnational worlds of social work.

TRANSSOS

The Research Center for Transnational Social Support (TRANSSOS) responds to the challenges of the increasing impact of transnational developments and structures upon social work and aims at the transnational opening and development of social work and related fields. It offers an institutional framework for the systematic advancement of transnational social work. It is structured by four program areas:

- PhD Program
- Research
- Publications /The Journal \(TSR\)
- Conferences

TRANSSOS is located at the Institute of Education at the Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz and the Institute of Social Work and Organization Studies at the University of Hildesheim, both Germany.

PHD PROGRAM

The Research Training Group 1474 „Transnational Social Support“, funded by the German Research Foundation, provides an organizational structure that enables excellent research at the doctoral and post-doctoral level in relation to the topic „Transnational Social Support“. It is framed by an inspiring, team-oriented and international study program that ensures a process of focused supervision, fruitful discussions and profound knowledge acquisition.

During the funding period (2008-2012) the Research Training Group concentrated on challenges and support processes in the context of transmigration and the framing and initiation of social support by transnational organizations.

In the current funding period (2012-2017) the focus of the research programme shifted to the level of transnational everyday lives which are analyzed with a social support and social services perspective.

RESEARCH

TRANSSOS conducts innovative research on the complexities of transnational social work needs and transnational social support practices.

In 2014 different working groups, which aim to strengthen and widen the research development in the field of Transnational Social Support, were established:

- Transnational Aging
- Transnational History
- Transnational Knowledge
- Religion and Transnational Social Support
- Transnational Social Networks
- Transnational Social Policy
- Youth and Transnationality

Cooperations, activities, and networks led to a wide range of different research topics and interests within TRANSSOS.
